

A Lazy Liver

May be only a tired liver, or a starved liver. It would be a stupid as well as a savage thing to beat a weary or starved man because he lagged in his work. So in treating the lagging, torpid liver it is a great mistake to lash it with strong drastic drugs. A torpid liver is but an indication of an ill-nourished, enfeebled body whose organs are weary with over work. Start with the stomach and allied organs of digestion and nutrition. Put them in working order and see how quickly your liver will become active. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has made many marvelous cures of "liver trouble" by its wonderful control of the organs of digestion and nutrition. It restores the normal activity of the stomach, increases the secretions of the blood-making glands, cleanses the system from poisonous accumulations, and so relieves the liver of the burdens imposed upon it by the defection of other organs.

If you have bitter or bad taste in the morning, poor or variable appetite, coated tongue, foul breath, constipated or irregular bowels, feel weak, easily tired, despondent, frequent headaches, pain or distress in small of back, gnawing or distressed feeling in stomach, perhaps nausea, or "rising" in throat after eating, and kindred symptoms of weak stomach and torpid liver, no medicine will relieve you more promptly or cure you more permanently than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Perhaps only a part of the above symptoms will be present at one time and yet point to torpid liver or biliousness and weak stomach. Avoid all hot bread and biscuits, griddle cakes and other indigestible food and take the "Golden Medical Discovery" regularly and stick to its use until you are vigorous and strong.

The "Discovery" is non-secret, non-alcoholic, is a glyceric extract of native medicinal roots with a full list of its ingredients printed on each bottle, upper and attested under oath. Its ingredients are endorsed and extolled by the most eminent medical writers of the age and are recommended to cure the diseases for which it is advised.

Don't accept a substitute of unknown composition for this non-secret medicine of known composition.

ONLY ONE OF ENGLISH BIRTH.

Men Who Fought Britain's Battles Have Been Irish or Scotch.

There has not been an English general since Marlborough. Wellington was born at Dangan castle. Men of an old Irish family called Wesley, and christened in Dublin. Wolfe was born at Ferneux abbey, Kildare, and christened at Westerham—nearly in the same case as the Brontes (Bronty). His grandfather defended Limerick against William III.

Sir John Moore and the Napiers were Scotchmen; so was Abercrombie (Egypt); so were Napier of Magdala (Crawford) and Clyde, Wolseley, Roberts and Kitchener are Irish. So was Gough. The generals and statesmen who saved India to Great Britain were Neil, Nicholson, the two Lawrences (Irish), Edwards (Welsh), and Rose (Scotch).

I know of Wolfe because my great-grandfather served under him at Quebec. His Irish birth was corroborated to me by Capt. Dunne, once well known in literary circles of a Queen's county family. I don't know whether Scotchmen like to be called English, but certainly Irishmen do not.—London News.

ADDS TO CAPACITY OF ENGINE.

Efficiency Increased Without the Consumption of More Fuel.

At the Royal Technical school, in Charlottenburg, Germany, there has recently been tested, with remarkable results, a method of increasing the efficiency of steam engines, which was invented by two Germans some time ago, but has only now been effectively applied.

The principle depends upon the employment of the exhaust steam from an ordinary compound engine to evaporate another liquid having a lower boiling point than water. The liquid used is sulphuric acid. The heat of the exhaust steam is sufficient to liberate sulphur dioxide gas, and this, passing into the cylinder of an auxiliary engine, acts the part of steam. It is afterward condensed and goes back to the vaporizer. The result is said to be that to every indicated horsepower developed in the main engine about half a horsepower is added by the auxiliary engine, without increasing the consumption of fuel.—Sunday Magazine.

A Case Worth Trying.

Mr. F. Philander Towersby, a most excellent citizen, though not noted for lavish prodigality, received recently a consignment of very rare Toukayer Ausbruch. He sent one bottle of the delicious wine to Justice Fordyce of the supreme court, who happens to be one of the most eminent connoisseurs in America, and with the bottle sent a note asking his honor's opinion of the vintage.

Mr. Towersby received next day this reply:

"My Dear Sir: I beg to thank you for the confidence you repose in my judgment, as shown by asking for my opinion.

"But, inasmuch as I am a lawyer, many years of training and experience make it impossible for me to give an opinion on anything but a case."—Harper's Weekly.

Topics of Conversation.

The pet subjects of to-day seem to be as follows: Racing, stocks and shares, politics (in small quantities), children, bridge, motors and motoring, with a word or two thrown in, according to taste, on art, music, books, newspapers, furniture, flowers and gardening.

This up-to-date mixture is well spiced with current small talk on the marriages, deaths, debts, diet cures and divorces of our dearest friends and acquaintances, declares a magazine writer. Among forbidden themes are the weather, religion (except, perhaps, Christian Science), and such tame subjects as husbands, babies, servants and other domestic details of a like character.

Keeping His Memory Green.

He wore exaggerated mourning after his week's absence from the office, and his friend hastened to console with him. After repeating some commonplace formula he ventured a discreet question.

"Did your uncle—er—leave any estate? He was very fond of you, I believe."

"Well, he left me $500 for a memorial stone."

"Have you purchased it yet?"

"Oh, yes, I bought it right away. This is it. It's a first water stone, too. I've had it mounted for a scarf pin."

The Suburban.

Two residents of the suburbs, says the New York Sun, were discussing the Olympic races which were then then taking place in London.

"The Olympic runners have done some record work," declared one.

"H'm!" rejoined his companion, scornfully, "I notice they didn't run with a cup of coffee in one hand and a breakfast roll and the paper in the other."

Deafness No Disadvantage.

Old Gentleman (adjusting his ear trumpet)—I say, doctor, your treatment doesn't seem to be helping me at all. I can hardly hear a word now.

Doctor Bluff (an old-time physician and something of a cynic, consolingly)—Don't let that worry you, my friend. There's so damned little worth hearing nowadays you're not losing much.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine

"A Military Mix-up."

The play entitled "A Military Mix-up," written and produced by Capt. D. A. Ruebel, using Wentworth cadets for the entire cast, made a great hit at the opera house Friday evening. The novelty of men taking female roles was a prominent feature.

Being a school affair, the production was well patronized by all the schools and by the townspeople. Every seat in the house was sold and the athletic fund of the institution was again given a substantial lift.

The audience was enthusiastic in its appreciation and liberal with applause.

Jay Wyatt, the well known athlete, took the star part as Mandy Mundane, the coquettish old maid. He was a scream from start to finish and kept the house in continuous uproar. Other female characters were played by Cadets Uhl, Kavanaugh and Sellers. The male roles were taken capably by Cadets Robinson, Woodard, Richardson, Mann, Kenney, Glanfield, Hoge II, Wheeler, How, Davis, Matchett and Shepherdson.

As vaudeville specialties the glee club sang a new Wentworth song and young Cadet Ford with the assistance of the chorus sang "My Skating Rink Queen."

Both of these songs were composed by Miss Margaret Aull and Capt. Ruebel. They made good in every particular. The school orchestra under the direction of Capt. Day played between acts.

Early Morning Fire.

The fire company made a most excellent run Saturday morning at five, when an alarm was turned in from the house of George Alexander, colored, facing the alley behind the residence of William Aull. Alexander had risen for the day and was preparing to make a fire in a stove. He left a lamp burning in a room and went out for a few moments. When he returned the room was in a blaze. So it is thought that the lamp exploded. The house was an old brick structure and an easy prey for the flames. Very few of the household goods were saved and the house was totally destroyed. There was no insurance on the dwelling.

Mrs. Talbot Simpson and her two children, Talbot, Jr., and Sarah Francis, arrived from Aulleville Friday evening for a visit with relatives in this city.

About a Former Lexington Boy.

The following article appeared in Sunday's issue of the Kansas City Star and concerns a former Lexington Boy, Carl Stalling. The article was accompanied by a picture of Carl. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stalling who moved to Kansas City several years ago. Carl was considered a "musical prodigy" when he lived here. He was a pupil of Miss Carrie Loomis.

Carl Stalling, a youthful student of the piano, pupil of Mrs. Louis Klein, will play his first formal recital Thursday evening in the Spalding auditorium, corner of Tenth and Oak streets. The young man's programme would do credit to an artist mature in years. It opens with the first movement of Schubert's A minor sonata and closes with Chaminade's brilliant concertstuck, opus 40, the work which Carl Preyer played as soloist for the Symphony orchestra several years ago. Other numbers in the programme are a Moszkowski waltz, Poldini's "Marche Mignonne" and the Liszt arrangement of Schubert's "Erl King." Franklin Hunt, baritone, will be the assistant soloist.

Have One Doctor

No sense in running from one doctor to another. Select the best one, then stand by him. Do not delay, but consult him in time when you are sick. Ask his opinion of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral for coughs and colds. Then use it or not, just as he says.

We publish our formulas. We furnish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

Always keep a box of Ayer's Pills in the house. Just one pill at bedtime, now and then, will ward off many an attack of biliousness, indigestion, sick headache. How many years has your doctor known these pills? Ask him all about them.
